EPISCOPAL REVISION.

The joint committee appointed at the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States to revise the constitution and canons of the church has submitted the result of its protracted deliberations in a report which was made public on Monday.

The revision provides that there consisting of shall be a general synod, consisting of the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies, which shall sit and deliberate beputies, which shall stand denorate separately, and that freedom of debate be allowed. Either house may originate and propose legislation, but every act must be adopted by both houses and be certified by the signature of the pre-siding officer and of the secretary of

The House of Bishops is to be composed of every bishop of the church having jurisdiction, every bishop coad-jutor and bishops whose resignation of jurisdiction shall have been accepted. A majority of all the bishops entitled to vote, exclusive of missionary bishops, shall be nece sary to constitute a quorum.

The House of Bishops shall elect by a majority vote from its number a primus to be its presiding officer, who shall hold office for life unless he resigns or be removed for incapacity or canonical cause. The church in each diocese which shall have been admitted to the General Synod shall be entitled to be represent-ed in the House of Deputies by not more than three presbyters canonically res' dent in the diocese and three laymen communicants of this church and hav ing domicile in the diocese. Each dio cese shall prescribe the manner in which its deputies shall be chosen.

In either house any number less than a quorum may adjourn from day to day. Neither house during the session of the General Synod shall adjourn without the consent of the other for more than three days, nor to any place other than that in which the synod shall be

The General Synod is to be the su-preme legislative authority. It shall also have power to enact canons of discipline and exclusive power to enact canons defining the oflenses for which bishops, presbyters and deacons may be tried and determining the penalties. The court for the trial of a bishop is to be composed of bishops only. Many other powers are clearly defined.

and missionary jurisdictions. Every province must include not less than five icrity contiguous dioceses, and in each prov ince a synod, composed of the bishops and of clergy and laity, shall be consti tuted by the action of a majority of the convention of the dioceses within such provinces and of the bishops therein, for the exercise of such legislative pow ers as are not inconsistent with constitutional powers of the General Synod.

The bishops of each province shall elect one of their number to be primate of the province.

In every diocese the bishop or bishop-coadjutor shall be chosen agreeably to such rules as shall be prescribed by the convention of the diocese. Misionary bishops shall be chosen by the

A bishop shall confine the exercise of his office to his own diocese or missionary jurisdiction, unless requested to perform some episcopal act in another diocese or in a missionary jurisdiction by the ecclesiastical authority thereof, or authorized and appointed by the House of Bishops to act temporarily in cases of next beyond the territorial limits of the United States.

No one shall be ordained and consecrated bishop until he shall be thirty years of age, nor without the consent of the majority of the bishops exercising jurisdiction in the United States. No one shall be ordained and consecrated by less than three bishops. A bishop by less than three bishops. A bishop may not resign his jurisdiction without
